

Injuries Fatal to Pallizzo; Three Car Mishaps Friday

Retired Railroader Dies at Hospital; Driver Didn't See Victim

John Pallizzo, also known as John Paratz, 68, of 18 Cedar street, a retired railroad employee with more than 40 years' service, died at the Benedictine Hospital last night about 25 minutes after he had been struck by an automobile on Broadway.

The accident was one of three reported to police within a little more than an hour Friday night. Police said Pallizzo was struck on Broadway between Cornell street and Field Court about 10:30 p. m. by an automobile driven by Gilbert Edward Gray, 19, of 67 Ann street.

No Arrest Made
Gray was not held by police. He told Patrolman Carl Janowski, who investigated, that the man walked in front of his automobile and was struck before Gray saw him.

The injured man was taken to the hospital by a W. N. Conner ambulance, arriving there at 11 p. m. Hospital authorities reported Pallizzo died at the hospital at 11:15 p. m.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, notified when Pallizzo died, ordered an autopsy to be performed this morning. The coroner's verdict was withheld pending completion of autopsy.

Following the autopsy this morning, Coroner Kelly listed the cause of death as hemorrhage and shock, due to crushed chest, and an intercranial hemorrhage due to fractured skull.

Gray was driving a 1932 Chevrolet sedan north on Broadway when the accident occurred, police said. Riding with Gray was Miss Shirley Topp of Slightsburg, according to the police report.

The left front fender of the sedan and the left fender of the vehicle was damaged when it struck Pallizzo, police reported. Following the autopsy, Pallizzo's body will be turned over to the Thomas J. Wolf Funeral Home, 340 Broadway, from where funeral arrangements will be made.

Mannino Hurt
Two other accidents were reported to police Friday night. Joseph Mannino 53, of R 1 D 2, Saugerties, was taken to the Benedictine Hospital at midnight by Conner's ambulance following a two-car accident at the Rondout Creek bridge.

Local authorities today reported Mannino's condition as "fair." His injuries as reported to police included abrasions of both legs and possible injury to the spinal column.

Police said Mannino was driving a Willys Jeep west on Abbot street when it collided with a sedan which was coming off the Kingston side of the bridge. The sedan was driven by Duwood Ingram of Margaretville, police said. Both vehicles were damaged and a sign owned by the Creative Painting company of Marlborough on the bridge was also damaged, police said.

Insurance Rates Go Up Monday on Autos and Trucks

Increase Fourth Since War Because of Mounting Accident Toll in This Area

Insurance rates on private passenger cars and commercial vehicles will be increased from 10 to 20 per cent effective Monday, May 22, 1950. This increase will apply to all new policies and renewals written as of date.

The increase is the fourth since the war and reflects the increased number of claims due to a greater number of accidents and also the prevailing trend of awarding extremely high verdicts in cases when court action becomes necessary.

All classes of insurance have been increased and the former system of rating in classes A-1, A-2, and B now becomes obsolete. Classes 1 and 3 have been established. These new classifications correspond to the old ratings.

Will Add Up to $10
The new rates will add from $5 to $10 to the premium of the standard $5,000 and $10,000 policies.

New rates for the standard policy in the Kingston rating territory which includes Kingston, the towns of Esopus, Hurley, Kingston, Marlborough, Olive, Rochester, Rosendale, Ulster and Wawarsing are as follows:
Class 1, $41.50. Class 2, which includes families in which there is a driver under 25 years of age, $70.50 and Class 3, pleasure and business use, $58.50.

The big increase is where there is an operator under 25 years of age, this group being the one in which the greater risk appears. The Kingston rating zone rates are about 10 per cent above the rates for the Poughkeepsie area. The increase in commercial rates is about 10 per cent.

Would Recognize Reds
Moscow, May 20 (AP)—A reliable foreign source said today that United Nations Secretary-General Ruggie said during his recent visit to Moscow that the United Nations would recognize the People's Republic of China (Communist government of China). The source pointed out that with Egypt a member of the U.N. Security Council, such Egyptian recognition would leave Mao Tse-tung's regime needing only one more vote to secure admission to the U.N.

Six Tugmen Missing
Opelousas, La., May 20 (AP)—Six crewmen presumably drowned last night when a tugboat on the swollen Atchafalaya river crashed into a bridge support at Melville, La., and sank in 100 feet of water.

Five members of the crew were saved. The tugboat, the James Smith, was valued at $350,000, the property of the Oil Transport Co., of New Orleans, and was towing two barges full of oil.

Loss Lives
La Paz, Bolivia, May 20 (AP)—A general strike in Bolivia's capital yesterday brought clashes between police and workers in which 14 persons were killed and at least 75 wounded. Many other casualties in the factory district apparently were not hospitalized.

Considerable Interest has been shown in the plant of the Saugerties Paper Mills, which will be offered for sale at public auction at the Saugerties town office building on June 30 at 11 a. m., by Referee George F. Kaufman.

Interest shown by paper manufacturers in the plant has led Saugerties people and former employees of the concern to hope that the plant will be disposed of to some concern which will re-open the plant and again give employment to the village. Prior to the closing of the plant some couple of months ago approximately 25 to 30 were employed at the plant where paper was processed from pulp. The plant is located along the Esopus creek near the plant which was formerly occupied by the General Electric Company.

The plant will be offered at public auction on June 30 in mortgage foreclosure proceedings brought by the Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company which is the holder of the first mortgage which was originally in the sum of $400,000 and upon which there is now due the unpaid principal of $38,000.

Also named as defendants in the action is The Evening News Publishing Company, Indianapolis News-Papers Inc., and the Pulitzer Publishing Company, holders of a second mortgage in the sum of $380,000. Towley, Updike & Carter of New York city are attorneys for these defendants. Rosenthal & Lamb of Saugerties are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

Morris Rosenblum of Rosenthal & Lamb, Saugerties attorney for plaintiffs, today confirmed the report that there had been interest shown by outside interests in the plant and he expressed a hope that this interest in the plant would be displayed on the day of the sale and the property bid in by a concern which would re-open the plant and again give employment to Saugerties residents.

The plant was operated by The Saugerties Paper Mills until recently when lack of capital apparently caused the plant to become involved and close down. That company was owned by out of town paper interests, the president of the corporation being formerly a resident of Chicago.

Ship Open to Visitors Sunday Until 5; Preparedness Is Stressed
The U.S.S. Newman K. Perry, a destroyer, arrived off Kingston Point Thursday afternoon to take part in the local observance of the nation's first "unified" Armed Forces Day.

As weather cleared this morning, sweeps of planes from Mitchell Field flew over Kingston as an additional part of the celebration.

The destroyer will remain off Kingston Point through Sunday afternoon and a large number of residents are expected to respond to an invitation to inspect the ship. Visitors will be received from 1 to 5 p. m. Saturday and Sunday. Two small boats will carry visitors from the dock to the ship.

A delegation of local persons met the U.S.S. Perry in Poughkeepsie Thursday and sailed with it to Kingston.

Ask Speedy Action On Perverts as Red Conspirators

Lawmakers Call for Full Investigation After 3,750 Are Reported in Washington

Washington, May 20 (AP)—Lawmakers pressed today for a speedy Senate inquiry into federal employment of sexual perverts described as the likely tools of Communist conspirators.

A resolution calling for a full-scale investigation was introduced in the Senate last night shortly after an appropriations subcommittee reported that there are an estimated 3,750 homosexuals in government jobs in Washington.

The report, prepared by Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.), said: "Only the most naive could believe that the Communists would neglect to propagate and use homosexuals to gain their treacherous ends in view of the resort to every conceivable form of sabotage revealed in every enemy country infiltrated and finally taken over by the ruthless Communists."

A companion report by Senator Hill (D-Ala.) put it this way: "It is accepted and agreed that persons who are homosexuals are bad security risks and should not be in sensitive positions or in positions in the government where they might in any way aid or abet or be a party to subversive activity."

Called Bad Risks
Both reports stressed that perverts are bad security risks because they are easy prey for blackmail.

Ull introduced the investigation resolution on behalf of the full membership of an appropriations subcommittee which handles District of Columbia matters. That group voted unanimously for an inquiry.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), a member of the appropriations subcommittee, told the Senate last night the evidence the group got was so shocking it demands immediate action.

The subcommittee's recommendations were based mainly on testimony by Lieut. Roy E. Blich, head of the vice squad of Washington's metropolitan police department.

Blich said his conservative estimate is that there are about 5,000 sexual perverts in the District of Columbia. He said about 3,750 are on the government payroll.

Blich is reported to have told the subcommittee at closed sessions that 300 or 400 of these are in the State Department.

Examine Roustabout
Columbus, O., May 20 (AP)—A self-styled roustabout with Ringling Bros. Circus at the time of the disastrous 1944 fire at Hartford, Conn., will be examined by a psychiatrist next week. He is Robert D. Segge, 21, of nearby Circleville who was charged late yesterday with arson and attempted arson in recent fires near Circleville. He was bound over to the grand jury on $5,000 bond on each count. Segge told Pickaway County (Circleville) Prosecutor Guy Cline a strange story of "The Red Indian" who awakens him at night and orders him to set fires.

He said Congress decided the President "didn't know what he was talking about, they didn't know what he meant." Mr. Truman continued.

"I appointed a commission, made up principally of people who were opposed to a universal training idea. And you notice I emphasize universal training, not universal military training. And that commission began investigating the situation from all angles."

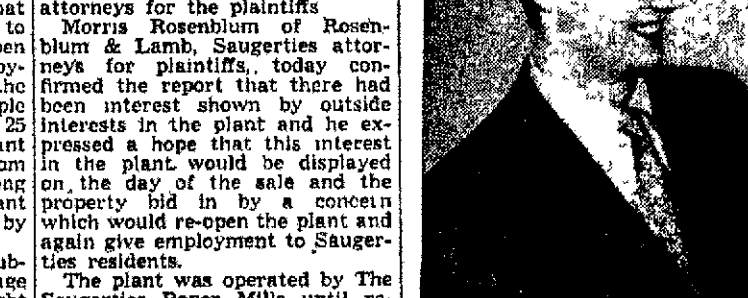

Recommended Training
Mr. Truman said the commission came in with a unanimous report suggesting that a universal training program would be one of the finest things that this country could have.

Adirondack Men Vote Union Shop

New York, May 19 (Special)
—Bus drivers for Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., which operates in the Kingston area, voted yesterday to support their union's demand for a union shop contract, it was announced today by the New York regional office of the National Labor Relations Board.

The union, Carl Yetzer Lodge 682 of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, was required under the Taft-Hartley Law to obtain the support of a majority of the employees it represents in order to negotiate with the company for a union shop. The vote among the 64 drivers eligible to cast ballots was 59 for the union shop, none against.

A union shop contract would require all the employees involved to join the union in order to hold their jobs.

Switchmen Will Talk Pay Tuesday
Washington, May 20 (AP)—The Switchmen's Union will start new wage-hour talks with 10 western railroads Tuesday — instead of going on strike that day, as originally scheduled.

The walkout was postponed yesterday until June 1 by Union President Arthur J. Glover, after the National (Railway) Mediation Board promised to begin new peace talks here next week in a last-ditch effort to break the deadlock.

The dispute affects some 6,000 switchmen in vital yard service on lines operating west of Chicago. None of these lines was involved in the firemen's strike which ended Tuesday.

The switchmen are seeking 48 hours' pay for a 40-hour week—the same terms granted to 1,000,000 members of the 17 non-operating rail unions last September, along with a seven-cent hourly rate hike.

Chairman Francis A. O'Neill, Jr., of the National Mediation Board, who announced the postponement, told reporters that Glover's union also wants time-and-a-half pay for Saturday work and double time for Sunday.

The switchmen refused to combine their dispute with that of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Order of Railroad Conductors, two other so-called "operating" unions, planning the moving trains. Glover said those two unions had other demands which did not affect the switchmen.

Charges Stalling
Washington, May 20 (AP)—Senator Butler (R-Nebr.) accused President Truman and Congress of threatening the whole Hoover Commission reorganization program by "maneuvering and passing the buck." He said the commission's proposals for streamlining federal agencies are being pigeon-holed in congressional committees, and bogged by special interests, and sabotaged by trick phrases inserted in the President's reorganization plans.

Butler said in a statement that Congress should act on the Hoover recommendations without any special interests inserted to serve the special purposes of the President or his advisers.

Hudson Still in Danger
An underground gasoline leak still threatened the city of Hudson this morning as the source of the leak remained unknown despite the efforts of workmen during the last two days. An emergency ban against smoking and lighting matches continued to be enforced night and day in the area, which surrounds a section of Columbia street in north Hudson.

Layoffs Canceled
New York, May 20 (AP)—The Third Avenue Transit System has agreed not to proceed with an economy plan of layoffs of certain employees at least through a mediation meeting scheduled for 4 p. m. Monday, a city mediator said yesterday.

Winnipeg, Man., May 20 (AP)—The weatherman gave a helping hand today to flood-pressed Winnipeg. He took the rain, anticipated earlier, off the forecast for the day.

Another welcome word came from the international border, 70 miles to the south, where the Red river pours in from North Dakota. There, at Emerson, the river's level dropped 1.5 inches in 24 hours. At Letellier, a few miles north of Emerson, the drop was four inches in 36 hours.

Winds that had churned the huge flood-made lake that now is southern Manitoba also dropped, easing the pressure on the main dikes on the south side of the city. But officials still feared a major break might develop.

Bookstein Reserves Decision On Changing Rain Trial
Troy, N. Y., May 20 (AP)—Council for New York city contended Friday that a court action seeking to block the city's rainmaking experiments was "a publicity stunt on the part of resort owners in Ulster county."

Arthur J. Goldsmith, an assistant corporation counsel, made the statement in State Supreme Court after he had asked Justice Isaac Bookstein to transfer the trial on the injunction proceeding to New York city.

Goldsmith argued, in submitting a motion for a change of venue, that the law specifically provided that suits of this type must be tried in the city.

Bookstein reserved decision on the motion. He directed attorneys for both sides to file briefs by May 29.

The Ulster county group seeks a permanent injunction to prevent the city from continuing its efforts to make rain in the city's watershed. The plaintiffs contend that rainmaking in that area would hurt their business, or damage property.

The action was filed by George Roeve, Anne Reeve, Edward Davnport, Howard Anderson, the Fine Hill Chamber of Commerce, the Phoenixia Chamber of Commerce and the Big Indian-Oliveras Board of Trade.

It named as defendants Mayor William O'Dwyer, Stephen J. Carney, the city's water commissioner; Edward J. Clark, chief engineer of the city water department; and Meteorological Wallace E. Howell of Harvard, who is conducting the cloud-seeding experiments.

John E. Egan of Kingston, attorney for the Ulster county group, opposed the change of venue. He argued that the trial should be held in the Third Judicial District because, he said, the property affected was in that area. He said his clients were not seeking monetary damages.

"The only question involved is illegal trespass in making rain fall," Egan added.

Bookstein also reserved decision on a motion by Egan, asking permission to examine New York city officials before a trial of the action.

In New York city on May 11, Justice Ferdinand Pecora refused to grant a temporary injunction against the rainmaking experiments. That action was brought by the owners of the Nevele Country Club at Wawarsing, Ulster county.

J. Gerald Bechtold Will Represent Kingston Post 150; Sessions Start June 25

Eight boys from Ulster county will attend the 1950 American Legion Empire Boys' State at Colgate University, Hamilton, June 25 to July 1. The quota set by the American Legion, Department of New York, was filled today with the receipt of the completed applications from Highland and Saugerties posts, according to an announcement by P. J. Beichert, Port Jervis, Ulster County Boys' State chairman.

Empire Boys' State is a citizenship training program designed to meet the needs of the American youth and to give them an insight into the democratic form of government.

Its purpose is to inspire and instill a sense of responsibility in the American youth by educating them in the principles of democracy and by teaching them the duties, privileges and rights of American citizens. The program at Empire Boys' State has been founded on the "learn by doing" concept. By actually operating their own government, the youngsters will leave Boys' State with a clearer view and higher appreciation of the functions of the various government agencies.

As nearly as possible, the government of Empire Boys' State is patterned after the city, county and state governments.

Like Atom Bomb
"I thought it was an atomic explosion," Mayor John Leonard said. "It was the first thought that hit me."

Charles Bersin, a coal barge worker who was an eyewitness to the blast, said he had the same feeling: "I thought Stalin was over here."

Military mines which had been showered off the barges during the big explosion caused several small-scale blasts during the night. These mine explosions were concentrated in the wharf area, and the military commander guarding that section said it would remain closed to all personnel until army mine detector specialists could be brought in later today to clear the explosives.

Explosion On Barges Like Bomb

Rumors of Atom Attack Spread as Spout of Smoke Towers Over South Amboy

Emergency Called

75 Per Cent of Homes in City Are Damaged, Mayor Estimates

South Amboy, N. J., May 20 (AP)—A thunderous explosion ripped through a string of ammunition-laden barges last night, killing possibly 28 persons and battering this waterfront city into a tangle of wreckage.

Three hundred persons, some in critical condition, were taken to hospitals. An estimated 300 others were treated by first aid squads and doctors who roamed the stricken area.

Officials reported the damage would run into the millions. The Pennsylvania Railroad said its dock area, where the blast occurred, had suffered $5,000,000 damage.

A state of emergency was declared in this city of 10,000 population. State police ringed the outskirts to bar the curious.

The explosion sent 600 tons of munitions into the sky over lower New York harbor. Rumors of an atomic attack spread through the community as the blast sent a spout of black smoke towering over the town.

Troops Check Looting
Troops, with bayonets drawn, patrolled the area throughout the night. Officers said there was no looting.

Extra guards were posted outside two banks which had been blown open by the blast. After the initial explosion, there was a city-wide shower of glass and a sprinkle of fires concentrated in the wharf area.

By morning only two of the dead had been identified. They were Frank Cincelli, about 23, of Jersey City, and Syverd Hagen of Brooklyn.

Mayor James J. Flynn of Perth Amboy, a city of 48,000 three miles across the Raritan river from South Amboy, estimated that 75 per cent of the homes in his city were damaged.

About 300 residents of Perth Amboy were cut off by flying glass and treated on the streets by moving first-aid squads, the mayor said. Damage was particularly severe in Perth Amboy's business district where plate glass windows were shattered.

New Paliz Woman's Death Called Suicide

A verdict of death by suicide was rendered Friday afternoon by Coroner Ernest A. Kelly in the death of Mary Campbell, 58, of Ford Road, New Paliz. Mrs. Campbell's body was discovered the afternoon of May 12. The verdict was delayed pending the outcome of investigation by state police regarding several unusual circumstances, including the fact that a charge of shot had entered a bookcase in the room. Mrs. Campbell's death was attributed to another charge from a shotgun, which entered the left side of the body under the heart.

"You'd never get away with that play against an expert," snarled West when today's hand was played.

Larceny Lou smiled and quietly answered, "I wasn't playing against an expert. Besides, I did get away with it, didn't I?"

Actually Lou's play would probably succeed against most players. It is a type that comes up fairly often and therefore will reward careful study.

West opened the five of diamonds. East played the jack, and Lou won with the queen.

Lou could count four club tricks, two hearts, and two diamonds. The only suit in which he could produce the ninth trick was spades. However, because of the danger that West had a five-card diamond suit, it was important to play the spades in such a way that West won the first trick.

For the purpose, Lou led a club to dummy at the second trick. He then returned the six of spades from dummy.

If East had been an expert he would have put up his king with the courage born of desperation. This would have held the trick. He could then return a diamond, knocking out South's ace. West would still have the ace of spades as the entry to the rest of the diamonds.

Actually, East did what most players would do. He played a low spade, and South's nine forced out West's ace. Now West could never regain the lead to cash them. Lou was therefore able to bring in the necessary spade tricks to make his contract.

Incidentally, this is a good type of play to remember. Try to force out the high cards of the player who has led a long suit against you. You can often persuade the leader's partner to play low on a suit that you lead from the dummy.

An Attractive Colonial Home With Larger-Than-Average Rooms

Rooms Five
Bedrooms Two
Closets Seven
Cubage 15,800
Dimensions 34' x 23'

"The Baltimore" is constructed along the general lines of Colonial architecture with embellishments added that lift the house out of the ordinary. Cape Cod type. Outside dimensions are 34' x 23' with the house itself, minus of 15,800 feet. It would be fairly economical to landscape around this house and maintenance costs should likewise be low. A lot with at least a 60 foot frontage should be used because of the extra 10 feet required by the side porch.

Green fire-resistant shingles are suggested for the roof of the house, with matching green awnings and shutters further enhancing the over-all color scheme. The wrought iron railing at the front entrance should be painted black. Although the house pictured is finished with wide clapboards, shingles, narrow clapboards, stone or other material could be used with equal success.

Colonial Front Entrance
Colonial in design, the front entrance has two lights at either side of the door. The front door opens into a spacious hallway with wide arches at either side opening into the living room at the left and the dining at the right. Adjacent to the living room wall is the stairway to the second floor. The straight hallway next to the stairs leads to the back of the house and contains a long coat closet space at the right of the stairway.

On the left side of the hall is the entry to the basement stairs, with the doorway to the kitchen opposite this stairway door. The lavatory is located at the end of this hallway, with a linen closet conveniently located in the lavatory entry.

Of full cement construction the basement has its heater room under the living room and laundry under the kitchen and lavatory. The balance of the basement area can thus be used for storage or recreation purposes. A bulkhead built in the side wall under the stoop will provide direct access to the yard from the basement.

Measuring 21' x 13'4", the living room has excellent lighting and good cross ventilation provided by double windows in both front and rear walls; a French door leading to the side piazza, and a large window at the right side of the fireplace. Built-in bookcases are placed at each side of the front window.

The piazza is 13' x 9' and may easily be screened in or glassed, if preferred. An archway in the right wall of the front entry hallway opens on the large dining room which is 13'4" x 12'. A double mullion window is located in the front wall with a single one placed in the side. Built-in china cabinets are located in each corner of the wall adjacent to the hallway, while the swinging door leading to the kitchen is placed in the rear wall space.

Containing every modern convenience, the kitchen measures 13'4" x 9'6". The refrigerator is placed at the left of the swinging door with a built-in broom closet between the refrigerator and coat closet space. A side entry to the yard is at the right of the swinging door, from the dining room. A glass door would be very appropriate here.

Two more windows are located in the rear wall, one near the sink and the other in the breakfast alcove. The modern sink is U-shaped, and there is plenty of storage space in the cupboards built above and below the working counter. There's a handy space reserved for a breakfast nook. Both the work counter top and the floor are covered with linoleum which also is used in the lavatory.

If so desired the covered side porch could easily be expanded into a breezeway and attached to the garage.

The stairway to the second floor is well lighted by a window in the landing space. A linen closet is located in the side wall adjacent to the bathroom which contains a built-in shower and tub.

On the second floor the hallway is made in an L-shape with the entry to the right bedroom next to that of the bathroom. Measuring 13'4" x 10'8", the right bedroom has a double window placed in the side wall, and a dormer in the front wall. Together these windows provide ample light and cross ventilation for this bedroom. There's a large closet space in the rear wall and a built-in chest of drawers is located in the front knee wall under the roof.

The area at the end of the hallway could be made into a comfortable den with plenty of good closet storage space in the side wall. If preferred, the owner could use this space as a hobby or sewing room rather than as a den.

A double mullion window is located in the rear wall of the left bedroom which is 12' x 13'4" in dimensions. The room also features a dormer window in the front wall and a single window in the side. Built in chests of drawers could be placed at either side of the dormer window. A single light and cross ventilation in the rear corner adjacent to the double mullion window.

Interiors Enhanced By Window Curtains

Tasteful curtain treatment adds much to the interior beauty of the home. Interior designers say it is essential that the windows harmonize with the furnishings and that one should never overdo them. Any look of skiminess should be avoided.

Curtains should hang to the window sill, to the bottom of the apron beneath the sill, or to the floor; never stop somewhere between apron and floor. Straight-hanging curtains are suitable in almost any room. Use of ruffled draperies calls for discretion. Too-wide and too-full ruffles in a modern setting create a sense of clutter.

Rooms appear larger if draperies match the wall color. With figured wallpaper and floor covering, use plain draperies of the predominant wall color. Patterned draperies should harmonize with plain walls and floors. Two or more windows located side by side may be treated as a single window, to create the effect of a large picture-window.

Wall Temperatures

By using insulating board in home construction, home owners can lower the temperature of interior wall surfaces in summer, thus increasing comfort, because the cooler the walls, the lower the temperature in the room. In winter this phenomenon is reversed. The walls are warmer and consequently help to increase the sensation of comfort.

Change of Ownership

Change of ownership of a home, such as transfer of title from husband to wife or vice versa, usually will void the insurance on the house. It is suggested that the insurance company be consulted in advance. In making any transfer of title, it is important that the change of ownership be recorded.

Worth the Expense

When finishing the basement overhead pipes should be boxed in for a beamed effect and to avoid the dust catching nuisance of exposed pipes and wires.

New Bathroom Plan Avoids Morning Jam

Design of bathroom is undergoing a change. Architects, builders and home equipment manufacturers are working out ideas to end the morning traffic jam that generally exists in the average home which has only one bathroom. By making the room slightly larger, the toilet, tub, shower and lavatory can be partitioned off for privacy. Some house plans now call for the toilet to be set off by walls and separate door from the room holding tub and lavatory.

More bathroom storage space, to utilize hitherto wasted wall areas, likewise is included in the newer house plans. These recommendations do not add greatly to construction costs, but they eliminate one of the greatest annoyances experienced by the average American family.

MUST BE FAIR TO ALL GROUPS

The times are few when a public statement by Bernard M. Baruch is not worth taking note of. His latest, on the dangers of big government, is especially thoughtful.

Baruch is a man of acknowledged deep human sympathies. He can't be accused of callous disregard of people, or of wishing to return to the days of too little government. He believes in "community responsibility for the individual welfare."

The question today, as he sees it, is not whether the government should take action on many problems. Government's expanded role is an established fact confirmed by nearly twenty years of history in this country. It's unlikely any narrowing of its sphere of action will occur.

To Baruch, the question is rather: "How can government's action be made fair and just to all?"

He asks: "Is the old 'let me alone' philosophy to be replaced by nothing better than a 'gimme mine' philosophy?"

His inquiry is direct to the point. It's not a matter of whether the government shall aid the farmers, the workers, the elderly citizens, the unemployed. The problem is how to help each of these groups without doing harm to others and to the public in general.

The easy assumption that any government action with the welfare of any group of human beings as its goal is necessarily justifiable just doesn't hold water. There is no automatic virtue in having the government take a hand.

The real test must always be the effect of any such action on the well-being and character of all citizens.

The present farm price support program is a good example. To protect farmers against adversity, which often strikes for reasons wholly beyond their control, the government guarantees them a good return on their crops. But this policy means higher food prices to the average consumer, it contributes markedly to the tax burden, and it has led to vast, wasteful accumulations of farm surpluses in warehouses all over the land.

This hardly meets Baruch's standard of government action "fair and just to all." The answer is not, of course, to stop helping farmers. It is to devise a saner policy, one that will afford reasonable protection yet be less wasteful, less damaging to the public treasury, and less demanding on the average man's pocketbook.

Not an easy assignment. But we're not living in a simple world. Baruch has helped make that clear by emphasizing that there is no magic in the word "government action." They aren't a sure-fire solution; they merely open the door to a new approach which may or may not work.

MILLIONAIRE PEDDLER

He was only a fruit peddler, with no car, radio or telephone, yet he gave the Boston Public Library $1,500,000. Now that John Deferrari has died, leaving a sister as his only surviving relative, it is conceivable that the library may benefit further from his $4,000,000 estate.

Why did he choose the library as the beneficiary of his generosity? Because it was his school and his university. By reading there he learned the principles of investment that made him rich. Presumably also the attendants had received him courteously, not scorning his humble and even eccentric appearance.

There must be a moral here. Perhaps it is that Deferrari learned more than just enough to assure his own success. He learned also that the successful have an obligation to help others along the road. What better way could he have found to do this?

FACTS OF LIFE

Parents visiting a high school in Peoria, Illinois, found a slot machine, a dice table and poker table in one classroom. Mathematics students were learning to figure the overwhelming odds against the player in what is pleasantly termed a game of chance. It would be interesting to know whether this

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

WELFARE CAPITALISM

Maybe it comes to nations as to individuals, a kind of sclerosis, when thinking is so difficult that only words are ejaculated. At any rate, there is a new phrase in the land—Welfare Capitalism.

I am sure its authors mean well, but they, also want popular slogans to compete with Harry Truman's slogans. They wish to defeat him, because they are his political opponents, but they want to do it with a gimmick. They are much impressed by the omissions of Russell Davenport, whose greatest claim to fame is that he managed the campaign of Wendell Willkie, who was defeated.

As the Democrats have an organization called the A.D.A.—Americans for Democratic Action, which is left wing—so these "Welfare Capitalism" Republicans have organized the Republican Action Committee to propound a left-wing Republicanism. It is, of course, a satire for the Democrats and could make votes for them.

The task that this group undertakes is to wean labor away from the Democrats, although there is no existing evidence that labor votes as a bloc in this country. In fact, in 1948, Dewey was defeated by farmers rather than by labor.

So, various schemes are being devised to convince the worker that something Russell Davenport calls "Enterprise for Everyman," means something more than the "Pulse that Refreshes" or "Rinso White." In a word, they apply the sloganistic methods of advertising to political thought. Don't think—repeat slogans!

Maybe they have something, but the literature on the subject is not encouraging. For instance, I have before me a proposal which says: "Business enterprises which share their profits with all their regular employees, by means of accepted methods of incentive pay over and above the going rate of wages and salaries, shall be granted substantial tax credits by the government commensurate with the total of such additional compensation for extra effort and productivity."

The writer of the above paragraph severely chastises the Democrats for employing "the hand-out system for buying votes." Yet, as I analyze his proposal, it seems to be the very old handout. The employer shares profits with his workers and gets a tax reduction. The worker gets more money when there is a profit; the employer keeps more; but who makes up the deficit in the Treasury? Nothing appears in the proposal about cutting the cost of government.

The Welfare Capitalist who proposed this realized the danger he wrote: "Such a program must be carefully worked out on a sound fiscal basis, so as to avoid decreasing total federal revenue—until such time as deficits are turned into cumulative surpluses."

What are cumulative surpluses? I could go on quoting from this document, but really what is the point? It is all about the giving evidence of the queer things that are happening to the Republican Party where groups, particularly of younger people looking for outstanding leadership, are not finding what they like, turn to literary gibberish. No election has ever or can ever be won that way.

To get back to fundamentals, this coming election that is, 1950, is tremendously significant in our history. That is the reason for Mr. Truman's trip across the country, which was, in many respects, an act of political desperation. His program for the 51st Congress has failed. He is appealing to the country to defeat both Republicans and Democrats who have caused this failure.

He is appealing to the Welfare State. He wants a slower than Fabian socialism, slower than the Labor Party program in England; yet in the same direction. Harry Truman makes no bones about that. He states it in clear socialist terms, and then attacks anyone who calls it socialist. The method is interesting; thus far the general public response has been resolute. In September and October he will make a trip to the West Coast and he has already announced that he will continue the fight for his program in the 82nd Congress, which has not yet been elected.

The opposition to Truman's socialistic program is in Congress, which represents the people most directly under our system of government. Republicans and Democrats in Congress more closely feel the public pulse and understand the intentions and desires of the American people than all these little committees and organizations and schemers who are confusing everyone by their curious essays into the obscure.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

RED BLOOD CELL PASTE CURES ULCERS

World War II taught physician and surgeons some new methods of treatment because there were so many cases to be treated, cared for, and returned to duty in a short time. One of the stubborn ailments was chronic leg ulcers; the soldier, sailor or flyer had to be off his feet a considerable time to enable the ulcer to heal.

Until recently treatment of chronic or old leg ulcers has meant the tying off of large veins in groin and injecting the vein or veins supplying the ulcer. Another method is the use of specially prepared chloride of lime which has helped many old or chronic ulcers to heal.

However, with the need of men in World War II to get their leg ulcers healed within a short time, medical officers adopted a method by which the red cells of the blood could be used in the form of a paste, and the results were very gratifying.

In "The New York State Journal of Medicine," Dr. William C. L. Drefenbach, Albany, states that in 1943 it was first suggested that the red cells of the blood (which carry oxygen to all parts of the body), usually discarded when processing blood to manufacture plasma for blood transfusion, be used in the healing of chronic leg ulcers. Group O cells are employed and can simply be added to a thick paste by the addition of hexylresorcinol and powdered tragacanth. It is then applied directly to the ulcer. It promoted healing in 11 of 12 cases tried.

Just why these red cells help to heal leg ulcers in such a short time is not fully known. However, this red cell paste provides proteins for nourishment to the part, serves as a protective covering, and provides a scaffold or support for the newly ingrowing small blood vessels and connective or binding tissue. Also the relief of pain is more dramatic than with other forms of treatment.

Dr. Drefenbach states that while no "living" blood cells are present in the paste, there may be some specific element in concentrated form which causes this rapid healing of old or chronic leg ulcers.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—A lot of mystery surrounds the income tax case of a big eastern gambler—that of Vaughn Cannon, the slot-machine king of Buncombe county, North Carolina.

Most people don't realize that North Carolina, despite its record for progressive schools and more churches than most states, also has a thriving gambling racket and has done little to clean it up. Center of the gambling business is Asheville, in the western part of the state, and its big-shot boss, Vaughn Cannon, now appears to have high-up friends not only in North Carolina but in Washington.

More than one year ago, U. S. tax agents slapped a lien of $1,451,000 on Cannon's property in North Carolina and sent a recommendation to Washington that he be prosecuted for tax fraud.

Since then nothing has happened. The case has gathered dust. Why remains a mystery.

False Rumors
One reason why was reported to be powerful Congressman Bob Doughton of North Carolina. However, this columnist is convinced this report is untrue. Apparently, the rumor got started because Doughton is a director of the Northwestern Bank of North Wilkesboro, N. C., which has loaned the big gambler up to $60,000 for the purchase of "music machines."

Congressman Doughton, when queried, said that he was a director of the Northwestern Bank but that he had not intervened with the Treasury Department to hold up Cannon's income tax case, in fact, he never heard of the matter.

Lamar Caudle, assistant attorney general of the Justice Department's tax division, who comes from western North Carolina, also has been getting blamed for delays in the Cannon tax case. Actually, Caudle has a reputation for letting the chips fall where they may; in addition to which inquiry disclosed that the Justice Department had not received the Cannon case. It is still in the hands of the Treasury—despite the fact that it received the case on March 14, 1949.

Why Probe Gambling?

Meanwhile Cannon has already received a $5,000 fine and two-year suspended sentence from the Superior Court of Asheville for operating gambling joints and being in possession of gambling devices.

Meanwhile also, Cannon enjoys a neat little scheme whereby he pays a salary with local police authorities. This, incidentally, is one of the big points behind the crime probe of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Kefauver, who is not a prude person, is concerned about the big pay-offs that go to local police and judges for gambling protection. When police take money from one group, they will also take it from another, and our whole system of law enforcement is undermined.

In Asheville, a local police judge, Sam Cathey, is also the registered agent for Gambler Vaughn Cannon. Cannon's property, valued at up to $200,000 in Buncombe county, is registered "By Sam Cathey, agent," the same police judge who sits on gambling cases in Asheville. In addition, Marshall J. West, the Asheville city jailer and a member of the city police force, has also been on Vaughn Cannon's payroll. He drew a salary of $150 a month from the big gambler as a building supervisor at the same time he drew a salary from the city as an enforcement officer.

How city officials can serve two masters at the same time, one interested in law enforcement, the other interested in non-law enforcement is difficult to understand. But anyway they seem to get away with it in Asheville, N. C.

Two Bachelor Speakers

Good old G.O.P. Congressman Rich of Pennsylvania was worried the other day, as usual, over government spending. In one of his regular economy speeches, he told congress that its members were piling up debts that their children and their children's children would have to pay.

Then, turning dramatically to Speaker Sam Rayburn and Joe Martin, the Republican Ex-Speaker, Rich said:

"And that goes for your children and your grandchildren."

There was one important point Congressman Rich overlooked, however. Both Sam Rayburn and Joe Martin are bachelors.

McCarthy Jitters

Senator McCarthy recently received a letter from Nikkath

Chavre of Foster, Ohio, who wrote: "The following will show you what alarming confusion you have created. I was buying some garden tools at Sears, Roebuck and accidentally picked up a hammer and a sickle at the same time. Knowing them to be emblems on a Russian flag, I quickly let them go, thinking such an act might be construed as Communistic by you."

New Tax Bill

As everybody expected in this election year, the tax bill which the House Ways and Means Committee will unveil about June 1 will be kind and generous to the big political contributors who are expected to sugar the campaign kitties of both parties this fall.

Instead of repealing $650,000,000 in excise taxes and providing for $1,000,000,000 of new tax revenue—as recommended by President Truman—the final tax bill will transpose these figures.

In other words, excise taxes will be repealed to the tune of $1,000,000,000 while increased revenues to offset this loss will be roughly $650,000,000—the opposite of what the President requested.

Committee members privately admit that the legislation will be a "deficit" bill. To escape this ugly label in the press, the committee report may be window-dressed to make it appear that the deficit can be offset by closing tax-evasion loopholes.

Regardless of what the report may say, however, real fact is that closing loopholes won't capture more than $150,000,000 from tax evaders. Other provisions for added revenues likely to be approved by the ways and means committee are:

Corporation Income Taxes—A boost of around $265,000,000 derived from a 2 per cent boost from 28 to 30 per cent on corporations making more than $119,000 a year.

Stock Dividends—A proposed 10 per cent withholding tax on dividends is expected to add another $150,000,000. However, this will not be new revenue, but rather a new way of insuring the collection of obligated taxes often evaded.

Back Taxes by Insurance Companies—$90,000,000. This also does not represent new revenue, but an old debt that will be collected by tighter controls.

Two Clergymen Officiate at Florida Wedding Of Evelyn McRoyan and Christus John Larios

In a ceremony at Sarasota, Fla., Evelyn McRoyan of Sarasota became the bride April 30 of Christus John Larios, of Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Larios, 318 Washington avenue, Kingston.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Harvey Soper and the Rev. T. Karaphillis at the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Sarasota. The Rev. Soper is pastor of the Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Karaphillis is pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church at Tarpon Springs, Fla.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McRoyan, of Sarasota, was given in marriage by her father. The church was decorated with baskets of lilies and gladioli, and banked palms. The bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and ivory satin, with the bodice and sleeves of lace and panel of lace running down the center of the satin skirt. Her full length veil of imported French lace was an heirloom of the groom's family. She carried a bouquet in the shape of a basket of bride's roses, tuberoses and satin leaves.

Matron of honor was Mrs. S. E. Matthews of Philadelphia, the groom's sister, and maid of honor was Miss Eugenia Stathis of Jacksonville, Fla., who was the bride's roommate at the Florida State University. They wore gowns of heavenly blue nylon net, with bouffant skirts, capes, and halo hats, and carried white carnations, red roses, and tuberoses. Bridesmaids were Miss Constance Larios of Flattsburg, cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Mary Marletta of New Orleans, college friend of the bride, Miss Caille Economos of Bradenton, Fla., and Miss Eggle Kounoudis of Sarasota, cousin of the bride. They wore gowns similar to those of the maid and matron of honor, and carried red roses.

George Stamatakis of East Orange, N. J., cousin of the groom was best man, and ushers were Ken McRoyan of Sarasota, brother of the bride, Sarantos E. Matthews, Philadelphia, brother-in-law of the groom, J. P. Prouas, Baltimore, and James and Theo Economos of Sarasota. After a dinner reception at the Lido Beach Club for 200 guests, the couple left for a wedding journey to Sea Island, Ga., and then motored to Philadelphia. For traveling the bride wore a Victorian blue gabardine suit with brown lizard accessories, brown straw hat, and white orchid corsage. They will live in Drexel Hill, Pa.

The bride was graduated from Sarasota High School and the Florida State University where she was president of her sorority, Alpha Omega Pi, a member of the Pan Hellenic Council, and an attendant in the May Day Court. The groom attended Valley Forge Military Academy, served in the navy, and was graduated last June from Cornell University with a degree in civil engineering. He was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, secretary of the senior class and of the student government. Honorary societies of which he was a member were the Sphinx and the Scabbard and Blade.

Movie on Girl Scouting to Be Shown Here; Executive Hopes It Will Stimulate Interest

The Warner Brother's short subject "Women of Tomorrow" will be shown at the Broadway Theatre Wednesday through Saturday, it was announced today by Mrs. Hazel B. Meade, Ulster county Girl Scout executive who assisted with the filming of the picture.

"I hope that this picture will stimulate Ulster county's interest in and awareness of scouting and help in its program can be if well organized and given enough backing by adults," Mrs. Meade declared.

The girls in the picture are real scouts, Mrs. Meade said. The scenes were filmed last summer in New Bedford, Conn. where Mrs. Meade was executive director at that time. It was she who made most of the arrangements for the filming.

"Women of Tomorrow" shows "all phases of scout activity from the time the Brownie takes her promise to the time she is ready to lead a troop," Mrs. Meade says. It also pictures the varied program open to senior scouts in community service, as hospital aide, mariners, and wing scouts, and shows the camping life of the scouts.

Urging increased adult support of the county's Girl Scout program, Mrs. Meade said: "Citizenship is not learned from books—it is learned by practice. In Girl Scouting, we offer girls the opportunity to learn skills important in everyday living. In times of emergency, and in sharing responsibilities in the community through service activities. The girls also learn to plan and work together in a small group."

"It is an established fact that girls who learn to adjust happily in a small group have a better than average chance of success in marriage," she added.

Mrs. Meade said that modern living conditions often have "hemmed in our children with laws, buildings and congestion until they have been robbed of the adventure of free creative play. Somehow we have to be sufficiently ingenious to recreate adventure for and with our children." This is one of the many aims of the Girl Scout program, which stresses "belonging, resourcefulness, service and world friendship," she declared.

"We need a sense of belonging is so important to youth," Mrs. Meade said. "One of our chief aims is security, through belonging, giving each youngster the knowledge that she is an important part of one of the troops in her community."

Scouting activities cover broad fields of interest through the development of hobbies, outdoor activities, and service projects for the community. Membership in individual troops offer small groups of girls of about the same age experience in the give and take of group living and in democratic planning and carrying out of activities.

The scouting program cannot be achieved, however, without loyal community support, Mrs. Meade said. "Our limitations are definitely tied up with the number of volunteer help we get both leaders (those who deal directly with the girls in the troop) and on the council level, where the administrative work of scouting takes place."

Mrs. Meade also announced that the Girl Scout National Field Advisory Council, Lonsbury was in Ulster county attending conferences, helping plan programs, and "working for better and more organized scouting."

Extraordinary Performance Is Given by High School Choir in Annual Concert

It's one of those things some people amply take for granted. "Sure," they say, complacently. "Kingston High School has a fine choir. Just about the best in the state."

But if any of them were among the near capacity audience at the High School auditorium last night, at the choir's annual concert, any complacency must have been jarred out of them. Those youngsters are really extraordinary. The ensemble achieves a fine precision without sacrificing any plasticity. . . . The dynamic range of the voices is excellent. . . . They sing extremely difficult music, and furthermore, they do it by memory.

Altogether, a fine, mature performance was presented, and the highest tribute must be paid both the singers themselves and to Leonard Stine, the director, who, it would appear, has carved a secure place for himself in the school music hall of fame. It must have taken many long and grueling hours to weld a group of 90 high-spirited teenagers into such a disciplined, effective choir. Certainly any college would be proud to have such a choir.

The program to be repeated tonight, opened with the "Exultate Deo" of Palestrina, one of the greatest of the ancient (pre-Bach) contrapuntists. The choir sang with purity and beauty, and then launched into "Hear Yet Awhile" from Bach's St. Matthew Passion, a very difficult work which one associated only with experience and mature choral societies. The youngsters discharged themselves with the authority of a much older group.

Soloist for the evening were soprano Heather Harrison, bass Chase Page, alto Dorothy Marable and tenor Angelo Corrado, interpreting a group of songs which have long been favorites on the American concert stage. Another group of soloists will sing tonight.

Starting with the extremely well written and sonorous "Hear My Prayer" by Kopylov, the second group of choir selections continued with "A Mighty Fortress" by Luther.

The choir leaders are unique among high school singers because they know how to make an "attack," which technically in music does not imply violence but rather unity and confidence in launching tonalities in every degree of strength. Also, knowing what sort of tone quality to stand with is one of the finer points of music and the young Kingstonians have it.

The group is further distinguished by its lack of self-consciousness and awkwardness. Their stage presence as a whole was very reassuring and had a decided effect on the audience's enjoyment of the program.

No sluggishness appeared in their vocal movement, such as is evident in most amateur and some professional groups. If any weakness was apparent in the tonal qualities of the group, it was in the tenors some of whose voices lacked purity. This is often an age problem.

Mr. Stine, whose unusual gifts are reflected in the equally unusual achievement of his group, conducted with restraint and subdued forcefulness throughout.

May Pickett Juke Box
Detroit, May 20 (AP)—By court decree, a union had the right today to picket a juke box. For the last 10 days an A.F.L. Teamsters Union affiliate has had a picket outside a restaurant asking the public not to play the music box inside. The juke box, says the union, is serviced by a non-union man. Acting on a complaint from the juke box distributor, Circuit Judge Clyde I. Webster approved the picketing as long as it didn't reflect on the restaurant's food service.

Living Costs Inch Up
Washington, May 20 (AP)—Living costs inched up a bit last month. The Bureau of Labor Statistics said its index showed a rise of two-tenths of one per cent between March 15 and April 15. With the 1935-39 period figured as 100, that brought the index to 107.3 for mid-April—1.4 per cent lower than a year ago, but 25 per cent above the figure for June 1948, when price controls were relaxed.

Nurses Are Told Cooperation Is Important Factor

The need for cooperation between registered and practical nurses was stressed Thursday night by Miss Katherine M. Murphy, R.N., principal speaker at the second regular meeting of the newly-formed Ulster County Division of the Practical Nurses Association of New York.

About 30 members attended the dinner meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Miss Helen Bowen, president, presided. Miss Murphy, who is executive secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, said there is a need for both registered and practical nurses. She explained that the registered nurse is needed for acutely ill persons, while the practical nurse can relieve her in caring for the chronically ill.

With the increase in the number of aged persons, the need for practical nurses is even greater, Miss Murphy said.

She explained the opposition of the state registered nurses' associations to a bill now before the legislature to lower the age for licensing of practical nurses from 20 to 15. This bill is in anticipation of a proposed federal enactment which, if passed by Congress, would provide federal aid to states for the training of practical nurses in vocational schools under the state educational system.

Registered nurses' groups feel that high school age people are too immature to absorb this type of education, Miss Murphy said. Also, the groups feel that it would be a mistake to take the supervision of practical nursing education away from the state board of examination of nurses and place it in the hands of the vocational department, as would have to be done to get federal aid under the proposed plan, she said.

Miss Bowen, the president, explained that the new practical nurses' association in Ulster county is a labor union, but a part of the New York State Practical Nurses' Association. The group will strive to higher the standards of practical nursing, and plans to compile a list of available practical nurses in that they may be placed at the disposal of physicians.

Rainy Week-End Is In Store for Nation

(By The Associated Press)

It looks like cloudy and wet weather for many parts of the country over the week-end.

There was rainfall in scattered areas of the western half of the country. Showers and thunderstorms were reported in the central and eastern gulf states and light rain continued falling in southeastern New England.

Showers diminished in most of the north central states but there were a few wet spots in the west central plains region.

Cool weather continued over the northeastern part of the country and some warmer air moved into the upper great lakes region. Elsewhere temperatures generally were around normal marks.

There was some measure of relief in the change in the weather forecast for the flood-besieged Winnipeg area. An earlier forecast of rain was changed to "no rain" later today. The flooding Red river remained steady at 30.25 feet above flood stage.

Second Thruway Survey on Sunday

Thursday's Count Will Reveal Weekday Traffic Volume

Poughkeepsie, May 20—A preliminary check on data obtained in Thursday's traffic volume and origin and destination survey indicates widespread interest in the New York State Thruway.

This was revealed by J. S. Bixby, district engineer, State Department of Public Works, Poughkeepsie, who stated that public cooperation was excellent and the results obtained met his fullest expectations.

Beginning at 8 a. m. on Sunday, May 21, a traffic census similar to that on Thursday will be made in the area. Passenger cars will be stopped up to midnight. Interviewing of truck drivers will continue through the night until 8 a. m. Monday.

Sunday's survey will reveal in more detail maximum traffic upon major highways. This traffic will be characterized by a larger percentage of pleasure cars.

The highway traffic data obtained in Thursday's survey will reveal average weekday volume and movement of all types of vehicles. It will be particularly valuable in determining the potential truck traffic that may use the Thruway. Upon these studies the rates to be charged Thruway users will also be established.

Bixby also explained that the data obtained in the surveys now being conducted will be integrated with that from previous traffic counts, including those made in connection with the state's program of urban arterial routes in cities near it.

Construction of the Thruway and completion of the urban arterial route program will provide New York State's major cities and communities with a skilfully designed network of main urban thoroughfares and high capacity highways designed to eliminate most of the traffic congestion in the state.

the Far East. Authorities said they had no idea what set off the blast.

During Shopping Rush

The explosion came just as the Friday night shopping rush was getting underway. The blast seemed to stop for a short moment, then broke out in a burst of confusion and panic.

Public buildings were taken over as first aid stations. A morgue was set up in a garage on Main street. What few dead were found during the early hours were badly mangled and had to be wrapped in burlap covering.

Armories in nearby Perth Amboy, Elizabeth and New Brunswick were thrown open to shelter disaster victims whose homes had been shattered.

Hospitals Jammed

Hospitals in the area were jammed. Perth Amboy General Hospital asked for quick deliveries of blood plasma. "Most of our supplies have been depleted by the terrific onslaught of injured," the hospital director said.

Electric and telephone service was disrupted in parts of the city. Only emergency calls were accepted. After full telephone service had been restored.

One of four barges involved in the blast sank quickly into the harbor. Three others burned for four hours and five minutes.

The job of loading the barges with the munitions cargo was almost completed when the explosion occurred. Dock workers said the job had started at 10 a. m. and there was only about 20 minutes more work to be done at the time of the blast.

Charges Breach of Faith

New York, May 20 (AP)—Tammany Chief Carmine De Sapio is still willing to form a coalition against leaving Rep. "The Democrats in this city are willing to join with the Republicans, liberals, veterans, labor, women and other independent groups in a campaign against Marcantonio," he said yesterday. "But a coalition must be effected on the above-the-board basis with no further breaks of faith."

And nobody seems to think that I know what I am talking about. "I am saying to you," Mr. Truman asserted, "that had we implemented that treaty in 1945 or 1946, there would have been no cold war."

Appearing with the President, Johnson said the Defense Department is working to build up a defense of such formidable ability as to convince a possible aggressor that we cannot be beaten quickly on a hit-and-run basis.

But, he said, there is a "most compelling" need to extend the draft law, now due to expire June 24, to bolster the morale of European countries who so far have "held communism at bay."

longer regard it as a river." The Red and its tributary Assiniboine and Seine rivers held steady at 30.25 feet here. Nor had the drop on the U. S. border reached Morris, 41 miles south of Winnipeg and the center of the flood area. There the river showed a slight rise overnight.

Officials still planned to order compulsory evacuation of the Winnipeg area if the rivers rose another two feet. Already 90,000 or more persons have left the area in response to official appeals for a lightening of the load on overtaxed public utilities.

Plans were ready to remove the rest if necessary.

D. M. Stephens, Manitoba's deputy minister of natural resources, said that the long-term weather outlook was "none too optimistic." The Red river valley, he said, is due for more rain in the next few days. That "in all likelihood" will cause the flood to inch its way higher.
